

SØK1101 – Environmental and Resource Economics – spring 2019

Candidate No. 10006

This was an excellent exam paper that stood out. In it the student demonstrated a complete understanding of the course material and a mastery of the technical issues and models. They went beyond this to carefully consider the implications of these models and to apply the insights from the course material to real world examples and settings.